GRAMMY NOMINATED PRODUCER-ARTIST SONNY DIGITAL TALKS ENGINEERING AND BEHIND THE MUSIC WITH STUDENTS

Washington, D.C. – On Wednesday afternoon, Sonny Digital who's well known amongst the hip-hop community, paid a surprise visit to Maya Angelou Public Charter School to chat music and determination as part of the Hustlers Guild speaker series.

Sonny has worked with artist such as Drake, Future, and Kanye West, jumped at the opportunity to meet with the deserving students.

The students were previously asked who they'd like to meet, and requested Sonny Digital on their wishlist. They were able to meet and chat with the rising rapper in a private meet and greet session. He talked about the highs and lows of being in the music industry under the age of 30 and how he stays focused. Many of students who are entering and practicing their love for music where able to share their talents with Sonny.

Graduating seniors are driving the program at Maya Angelou by creating the parameters of speakers and professionals they would like to see. In exchange, they have committed to additional community service hours and commitment to the program.

"To know that we were able to bring mainstream entertainers here to meet with the students at their request, is probably one of the proudest moments in our infant stages at Hustlers Guild," said Yasmin Salina, Hustlers Guild Founder.

Selected students got the opportunity to see the rapper perform live later that evening.
